Our clients do not hire us for our size, but because they trust in our ability to offer the best possible solutions to their problems. Maintaining this trust is our daily challenge. It is our conviction that we can fulfill our clients high expectations best with small, manageable and high affective teams. Therefore, professional development in our firm is distinctly different from professional development in many other leading corporate law firms. Another consequence of this concept is that you will be given a considerable responsibility from the beginning of your career.
