

Eric Stang is Chairman, President, and CEO of Ooma, the #1 ranked provider of cloud based telecommunications and other connected services for small business, home, and mobile users. As a proven leader and innovator in the high-tech industry, he has led Ooma from its early days in 2009 through to today when Ooma is a publicly listed company on the NYSE serving millions of customers. Eric joined Ooma from Reliant Technologies, a medical technology company, where he served as President and CEO and member of the Board of Directors. Prior to Reliant Technologies, he was Chairman, President, and CEO at Lexar, now a subsidiary of Micron. Under his leadership, Eric grew Lexar from a small private company to one of the 50 largest public technology companies in Silicon Valley, with revenues in excess of $850m. Eric has also held senior roles at Raychem (now a division of Tyco), Monitor Company, and McKinsey & Company.

Eric also serves on the Board of Directors of Rambus and Avalanche, and has previously served on the boards of InvenSense, Solta Medical, and Miradia. He holds an M.B.A. from the Harvard Business School and an A.B. in economics from Stanford University. In his spare time he enjoys sailing, skiing, backpacking, car racing, and spending time with his family.